MAYOR: PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY VIOLATORS TARGETED, NOT BLACKS

Moreno Valley Barbers Mobilize

The Black Voice News

MORENO VALLEY

By Chris Levister

Anger and highly charged emotions were on full display Monday as more than 50 Black Moreno Valley barbers and hair stylists from 20 barbershops gathered in an unprecedented show of solidarity, to have their voices heard, to take a stand against what they allege is a pervasive pattern of police harassment, unlawful searches and detention, civil rights violations and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

One by one, barbers seated in a symbolic circle shared riveting stories of how police officers routinely intimidate them and their customers. They charge an April 2 raid conducted by state regulators, police and city code enforcement was part of a concentrated effort to harass and eventually shut down Black owned and operated businesses in the city. Five of the six businesses targeted were Black-owned.

Several barbers accused police of conducting a second raid on April 15 to temper growing outrage and redirect negative media attention.

"Did five officers use the same aggressive tactics when they entered establishments on the 15? Did they wear bulletproof vests, and run warrant checks on customers in those businesses?" said Frank owner of MVP barbershop. MVP was targeted in the April 2 sweep.

"It is vital that we mobilize to stop the attacks," said Fades Unlimited barber, Ray Barnes. Barnes stunned fellow barbers when he chronicled how police entered his barbershop without cause three times in one year.

"First time they came in it was just police officers. They said 'we're just in here looking around'. They asked barbers and customers for identification. No arrests." Barnes said the second time police arrived with code enforcement officers. "Again they asked barbers and customers for identification. When we asked why customers were being questioned one of the officers got very aggressive. He told us it was a routine check and that police needed to be there because the code officer felt threatened. No arrests, everybody complied because we were very scared," said Barnes.

Barnes said on April 2, five Moreno Valley Police Special Enforcement Team officers, three City Code Compliance officers and three inspectors from the state Board of Barbering and Cosmetology entered the barbershop - "they were very disrespectful and arrogant. They demanded barbers and customers show driver's licenses.

They ran everybody's license for warrants," said Barnes.

Fades Unlimited barber Quincy Brown said he was put in the back of a police car for 10 minutes by an officer who claimed he had an outstanding traffic warrant.

"When I challenged his claim, he got very upset," Brown said the next day he went to court where officers found no record of a warrant. "There was no apology."

In another case a barber told of a 70-year-old customer who complained about his blood pressure after police demanded his identification during the April 2 raids.

"He was literally shaking. He could have suffered a heart attack waiting on a haircut," said Kevon Gordon, owner of the Hair Shack.

Barber Ray Butler who talked with the Black Voice News for a story published April 10 told listeners an officer wanted to know "why he talked Dos Lagos, a planned community located in Corona off the 15 Freeway was the site of the kickoff of the area's Earth Day events. About 200 white tents adorned the area set aside for vendors. They sold and gave away environmentally friendly items to the nearly 7,000 people in attendance.

Hits of the day included the Solar Car, the Cleveland National Park, the Jurassic Park, (items for sale) and the Mayor's Walk. There were performances all day and the weather was beautiful. The event was sponsored by the Green Institute for Village Empowerment. The event is to underscore the importance of saving our planet.

Allensworth Exhibit Reception, Exciting and Informative

Local residents, officials, and dignitaries from the California State Parks, the California African American Museum and descendants from Allensworth gathered in the San Bernardino Government Center to see and hear the story of Allensworth, "The Town That Refused to Die."

The excitement was over the Centennial celebration of the town that was started by Col. Allensworth, an Army Chaplain who rose from slavery and after the Civil War received the formal education he and other slaves had been denied. He rose to earn a doctorate in Theology and became Chaplain of the 24th Infantry (Colored Troops) and retired after 20 years of service as a lieutenant colonel, the first Black to do so.

Calling them the "eyes and ears" of the community Assembly Member Wilmer Carter D-Rialto invited representatives from local business, civic, education, employee, public safety, environment and health Friday to share breakfast and a common belief: open dialogue on issues important to the Inland Empire can act as an effective conduit by channeling strategy resource, and recommendations on legislation critical to one of the fastest growing regions in the nation.

"I'm excited and encouraged by the overwhelming turnout and interest. My goal is to create a diverse choir of many voices that will ultimately arm me with a powerful war chest of input and knowledge on complex issues like health, education, youth and economic development," said Carter.

The Inland Empire Community Advisory Council consists of 48 representatives from the 62nd District comprised of Rialto and Colton, portions of Fontana, San Bernardino and the communities of Bloomington and Muscoy.

Nine commissions: community relations, economic development, education, health, public safety, senior (aging), transportation, veterans and youth will work with Carter and her staff to develop strategies, advise on legislation, identify strategic programs and funding sources to strengthen her legislative hand. Carole Lee, Ph.D. Assistant Principal at Palmetto Elementary School Fontana serves on the Education Commission.

"This is a great opportunity to get involved where it really matters. You hear it from parents, students and members of the wider community - 'My voice doesn't count, nobody cares what I think'. Part of our challenge is to change that perception, they do have a voice at the table," said Lee.

"When public servants develop meaningful connections the result is a vibrant sharing atmosphere and a cohesive, collaborative local community," said Carter. "What citizens think does matter."

The core objective of the council commissioners will be to bring forth current issues and work to provide consensus recommendations to help Carter promote her legislation; raise citizen awareness and strengthen outreach efforts to engage the community at large.

The commissions will meet quarterly over a meal, said Carter.

Moreno Valley Barbers Unite

It appears as though the barbers of Moreno Valley are coming together to stand up against the police forces that appear to have conducted unlawful raids on their businesses a few weeks ago. According to news reports the police sought out the assistance of the Department of Consumer Affairs to avoid getting search warrants. Kevin Flanagan told the Black Voice News reporter that Moreno Valley police sought them out, and Russ Heimerich spokesman for the same agency said "we tagged along with these types of operations". So the question is who is telling the truth -- the police or the DCA officials? Later in the same article Police Chief Rick Hall said "this operation is much like the decoy program to deter alcohol sales to minors." A barber shop has only hair cuts to sell and in some shops they sell hair care products. The last time I checked, there were no age restrictions for these items. Chief Hall also said at first he had no information on customers being questioned or searched but later corrected himself and said a customer was taken into custody for carrying a concealed weapon. How would you know if a person had a concealed weapon or not if you did not search them. The city now has posted on their website that they issued a citation to someone for parking in a disabled parking space. The police need to let the community know how many of these types of operations have they come dressed down with a SWAT team approach? What were they looking for?

The city is now trying to blame the Black Voice News reporter of stirring up trouble in Moreno Valley. The newspaper did not make up the story, but we are reporting the story to the world. The newspaper did not identify the businesses to be inspected or raided by the police, they selected the Black owned businesses. The newspaper did not seek the story the story sought us and we have a responsibility to tell the story. If it had not happened we could not report it. The barbers are not backing down and neither are we. As a proud member of the Black Press of America, we believe that we have a mission to be a voice for the voiceless and disenfranchised. We receive calls every week from members of the community who are looking for assistance, guidance, and information. Many who have no other advocates or support. They find themselves powerless against a powerful system that historically discriminated against them.

All of the operators have said they welcome the Department of Consumer Affairs conducting inspections of their business because it educates them on compliance issues. I agree with this because it makes for better businesses and safer environments for customers.

Alvord USD Should Name School Thurgood Marshall

The Alvord Unified School District in Riverside County is in the process of naming a school and one of the names being considered is Thurgood Marshall. Some of the school board members are hesitant to do so because they think schools should be named after geographical locations and one did not recognize the name of United States Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. The naming of a public education building whether geographically or to honor one who has made positive contributions to the American way of life nationally or locally, should evoke a sense of pride in the children, community, and city. Now a geographical location can have the same impact but in a different way.

Surely Thurgood Marshall is the kind of American citizen that every American can hope to emulate while having the opportunity to teach history at the same time. Now I do not know all of the justices but because of Marshall's ascending to that high court I have become more aware of the high court and its impact on our lives and awesome responsibility the justices have to chart the course of our daily lives. Marshall's background is one of massive accomplishments against insurmountable odds yet he fought on and his reward was to sit on our highest court in the nation. This is the same judicial body that had ruled in 1898 that "separate but equal" was the law of the land. Justice Marshall earned his degree from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, one of our nation's historical Black universities because the University of Maryland Law School denied him access because of his color. He did not become angry with the White citizens who established the rules but educated himself and then challenged the laws which he knew were unjust. His courage has given Americans a freedom that many only dreamed about. Yes he was a great American that any community would be proud to place his name on a school for young students to know about.

Al Wilson Gone but not Forgotten

Most of us have heard the lyrics of the famous song "The Snake" where the good hearted lady is on her way to work and spots this pretty injured snake laying by the road. Being kind she picks up the snake and takes it home, wrapping it in fine linen and giving it food to eat while she goes to work. Upon her return home the snake has greatly improved so she takes it to her bosom and speaks of his recovery, then the snake bites her and says "you knew I was a snake." Another song so many of us danced to in 1973 was "Show and Tell," both of these songs were recorded by Al Wilson of San Bernardino. Well this past Monday Al Wilson's voice was silenced when he passed away at the age of 68 from kidney failure.

I first met Al in Rubidoux in the sixties as he sung on stage. I was at the club and Al had to hitch a ride back to San Bernardino with Frank Ingram with whom I was riding with. Our paths crossed several times since then and just recently Al showed up in the neighborhood at a birthday party for Angela Smith. That was just the kind of guy he was. He never forgot his roots on the Westside of town.

To his family we offer our condolences and his music will always be with us.

hard work in a class A college."

Thurgood Marshall followed his Howard University mentor, Charles Hamilton Houston to New York and later became Chief Counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). During this period, Mr. Marshall was asked by the United Nations and the United Kingdom to help draft the constitutions of the emerging African nations of Ghana and what is now Tanzania. It was felt that the person who so successfully fought for the rights of America's oppressed minority would be the perfect person to ensure the rights of the White citizens in these two former European colonies. After amassing an impressive record of Supreme Court challenges to state-sponsored discrimination, including the landmark Brown v. Board decision in 1954, President John F. Kennedy appointed Thurgood Marshall to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. In this capacity, he wrote over 150 decisions including support for the rights of immigrants, limiting government intrusion in cases involving illegal search and seizure, double jeopardy, and right to privacy issues. Biographers Michael Davis and Hunter Clark note that, "none of his (Marshall's) 98 majority decisions was ever reversed by the Supreme Court." In 1965 President Lyndon Johnson appointed Judge Marshall to the office of U.S. Solicitor General. Before his subsequent nomination to the United States Supreme Court in 1967, Thurgood Marshall won 14 of the 19 cases he argued before the Supreme Court on behalf of the government. Indeed, Thurgood Marshall represented and won more cases before the United States Supreme Court than any other American.

Until his retirement from the highest court in the land, Justice Marshall established a record for supporting the voiceless American. Having honed his skills since the case against the University of Maryland, he developed a profound sensitivity to injustice by way of the crucible of racial discrimination in this country. As an Associate Supreme Court Justice, Thurgood Marshall leaves a legacy that expands that early sensitivity to include all of America's voiceless. Justice Marshall died on January 24, 1993.

A Thurgood Marshall timeline:

Mr. Marshall graduates with honors from Lincoln U. (cum laude)
1933
Receives law degree from Howard U. (magna cum laude); begins private practice in Baltimore 1934
Begins to work for Baltimore branch of NAACP
1935
With Charles Houston, wins first major civil rights case, Murray v. Pearson

State Discipline

Joseph C. Phillips

eschewing the old school notions of sparing the rod and spoiling the child in favor of a new school idea of less strident disciplinary measures. Having been on the receiving end of the old school rod...the shoe, the belt, the switch, (in fact it might be easier for me to list those things with which I was not hit as a child), I am similarly inclined not to visit such trauma on my own children.

It may indeed be that Lieber's heart is in the right place. Nevertheless, the bill is a direct assault on the rights of parents and it would be a shame to sacrifice freedom on the altar of noble ambition.

California State Assemblywoman Nancy Lieber (D) has reintroduced her anti-spanking bill to the California state assembly. The bill amends the current child abuse statute to now define as child abuse spanking with an implement such as "a stick, a rod, a switch, an electrical cord, an extension cord, a belt, a broom or a shoe." There are more than a few grandmas that will find themselves on the way to the pokey if this bill passes.

My knee jerk response was that this is but more liberal, narcissistic nosiness; an appeal to protect children as a pretense to supplant individual rights with state dictates. The current law already makes it a crime for any person to "willfully cause harm...or inflict upon a child unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering." What can be gained by amending this language other than to have social workers and police officers second guessing parents when they choose to use corporal punishment to discipline their children?

It is also notable that Lieber has no children of her own. Certainly the irony of a woman that has never raised children presuming to legislate how parents can and can't discipline their children can't be lost on the bill's supporters.

However, more studied meditation has me wondering if Lieber like so many of our particular generation is simply

I have from time to time engaged in a bit of "tactile aid" with my sons and there have been occasions that I have used a belt to discipline them. Oh, I bluster a great deal. I threaten and make a big show of pulling out "the belt" (cue scary music), but I can count on one hand the number of times I have actually used it. In my capacity as a responsible parent, I used my discretion and deemed the breech of house rules sufficient that I used a belt when they were disciplined. It wasn't pleasant for them. It hurt! It was meant to. And herein lays the issue.

As a parent, it is my duty to prepare my children for an independent and adult life. Discipline is a way of teaching my children lessons that are meant to ensure that they become contributing members of society rather than parasites upon that society. I am of the mind that these lessons will either be absorbed through the head or the bottom. I tell my sons the choice is theirs. My sons have weighed the alternatives and found it much easier to learn their lessons from the top down rather than the bottom up.

There are among my neighbors those that would disagree with my methods. I would encourage them to observe that my children, while spirited, are well-behaved, honest and respectful. Where my sons are concerned, they need not fear for their safety or their property. I would also note that while they are free to privately disagree with my methods and free to raise their children as they choose, they are not and should not be free to use the power of government to determine how I raise mine. The bill introduced by Lieber (and no doubt coming to a state assembly near you) suggests something very different. This bill suggests that children do not belong to parents rather they belong to the state.

The change Lieber seeks in the law lumps spanking with an implement in the same category as burning, cutting or choking a child. The amendment also places the parent in the rather precarious position of having to justify the use of spanking to a judge. Failure to persuade the court that such measures were justified could result in imprisonment for up to a year.

This should not be read to mean that I favor protecting parents that harm their children. I do not. I simply remain of the opinion that parents - even those that occasionally resort to corporal punishment - are far better judges of the measure of discipline their children need than are police officers or social workers. I am also convinced that parents are better able to love and raise their children than is the state of California.

The Drop-Out Crisis

By Marc H. Morial
NNPA Columnist

"Invest in the human soul. Who knows, it might be a diamond in the rough." Mary McLeod Bethune 1875-1955.

I participated in a conference organized by General Colin Powell in Washington, D.C. earlier this month and learned that every 26 seconds, one American high school student drops out of school - that's over 3,000 youth per day; nearly 10,000 youth each month; or 1.1 million young people a year. And unfortunately, the crisis has hit minority communities particularly hard.

Today, in the nation's 50 largest cities, only 52 percent of public high school students graduate, compared with a national average of 70 percent. Even more startling is the disparity in graduation rates between many urban areas and their more affluent suburbs. In New York the graduation rate is 47.4 percent for the city and 82.9 percent for the suburbs. In Philadelphia the split is 49.2 vs. 82.4 percent and in Los Angeles, it is 57.1 vs. 77.9 percent.

The fact is, almost half of African-American and Latino teens do not graduate on time. High school drop-outs are more likely to be unemployed, live in poverty and wind up in prison. Because the financial implications of dropping out of high school are directly related to a person's level of education, the financial stability of Black families, Black communities and the nation at large are impacted by the African American high school drop out rate.

Effects of high school drop out rates on the global economy are just as devastating. At a time when Asian giants like China and India are winning the competition for technology and jobs, America simply can't afford to leave millions of largely Black and brown young diamonds languishing in the rough. We are literally throwing away our future. Also, it is estimated that if the graduation rates for minority and White students actually reached parity by 2020, the potential increase in income across the nation would add more than $310 billion to the U.S. economy.

The current drop out rate is a crisis, more vital to our future than the war in Iraq or the current economic recession. It's time we treated it as such. We have both a national and a moral obligation to make sure that all of our children get the education they need to succeed. I'm not talking about throwing money at the problem - I'm talking about investing in human capital. I'm talking about making certain that all Black children have access to a quality education. And, research has shown that the achievement gap between white and minority students is due in large part to inequities in income and funding. We must provide adequate resources, not only for public education, but for health programs and mentoring and after-school programs so our children are given every opportunity to graduate, go on to college and make a good living.

The great American educator, Mary McLeod Bethune once said she would never rest while "there is a single [African American] boy or girl without a chance to prove his worth." And, in 1954, when the Supreme Court ended school segregation in the landmark Brown v. Board of Education case, there was the exuberant hope that a quality education would at last be the guarantee for every child in America.

But 54 years after Brown, we seem to be falling further behind. It's time we - American citizens, the Bush Administration, local and state governments and all presidential candidates - do something about it.

drop out," the former first lady told Philadelphia supporters who roared their disapproval of that idea and cheered her victory in a state where Obama outspent her 2-to-1. "But the American people don't quit. And they deserve a president who doesn't quit, either."

In a round of television interviews Wednesday morning, Clinton argued that she's the stronger candidate to take on Republican John McCain because she's won big swing states like Pennsylvania and Ohio.

"The fair question is if you can't win the states we have to win in the fall maybe that says something about your general election appeal," Clinton told.

Their Keystone state matchup was fierce and bitter, which seemed to harden attitudes among Democrats even as Republican John McCain tended to the unification of his party and campaigned across the country in preparation for the fall. Only half of each Democrat's supporters said they would be satisfied if the other Democrat won the nomination, according to interviews with voters as they left polling stations.

"After 14 long months, it's easy to forget what this campaign's about from time to time," Obama told an Evansville, Ind., rally, obliquely conceding that the Pennsylvania race turned nasty.

"It's easy to get caught up in the distractions and the silliness and the tit-for-tat that consumes our politics, the bickering that none of us are entirely immune to, and it trivializes the profound issues: two wars, an economy in recession, a planet in peril, issues that confront our nation. That kind of politics is not why we are here tonight. It's not why I'm here, and it's not why you're here."

Obama wasted no time making tracks to Indiana. His plane was in the air when the primary was called in Clinton's favor, which he discovered upon landing.

The Illinois senator trailed in opinion polls all along but had made up ground in the last few weeks, despite a series of inartful episodes in a campaign that once seemed smooth at every turn.

Clinton was winning 55 percent of the vote to 45 percent for Obama with 99 percent of the vote counted. She won the votes of blue-collar workers, women and white men in an election where the economy was the dominant concern. He was favored by Blacks, the affluent and voters who recently switched to the Democratic Party, a group that comprised about one in 10 Pennsylvania voters.

Clinton won at least 80 delegates to the party's national convention, with 12 still to be awarded, according to AP's analysis of election returns. Obama won at least 66.

Obama maintains a clear delegate advantage as well as the lead in the popular vote, and there are not many opportunities left for Clinton to turn that around. Moreover, party leaders are growing impatient with the drawn-out struggle and have watched nervously as McCain, his nomination race long settled, has climbed in opinion polls.

Bernardino County, and Assembly Member Carter said that she, her constituents and local officials need to know what all the agencies and those responsible for the contamination are doing to achieve a timely resolution. "Instead of each agency working autonomously, we must bring everyone to the table so we can work together as a team," Carter stated.

The committee is chaired by District 6 Assembly Member Jared Huffman (D-San Rafael), who will be attending the hearing along with other committee members. "Assembly Member Carter asked me to bring the Environmental Safety and Toxic Materials Committee to her district to focus on perchlorate contamination of drinking water in the Rialto-Colton basin. This is a great time to bring our members up to speed on the issues. We know that there are federal, state and regional activities, and we want to support every effort toward cleanup. That's why we are here," Assembly Member Huffman stated.

The Environmental Safety and Toxic Materials Committee has jurisdiction over policy areas and legislation relating to drinking water, toxic contamination of water, regulation of consumer products that contain toxic substances, leaking underground storage tanks, pesticides, hazardous waste, and the financing and redevelopment of contaminated properties such as brownfield clean-up, and toxic chemicals in consumer products.

For more information, contact Assembly Member Carter's District Office at 909-820-5008.

with the press".

Each of the five Black owners targeted in the April 2 raids gave similar stories of aggressive police behavior, checking customer's identification and running criminal warrant checks.

"One at a time, our businesses and our customers are being subjected to the worst elements of racism and imperial bullying," said Marvin Martin a barber for over 20 years. "We want it stopped."

Meeting organizer Lorenzo Griffin rallied barbers and their allies to mobilize around a campaign of solidarity.

"Move beyond the rhetoric and blame, the livelihood of every barber in this room is threatened. Make no mistake acceptance of this kind of police hostility will open the way for even further attacks on both barbers and customers."

Mayor Bill Batey, the city's only Black council member issued a statement Wednesday saying the businesses weren't targeted by race. He is expected to meet with barbers and salon owners May 5.

"Some in the community characterized these inspections as 'raids' targeted at specific groups. That characterization is inaccurate," Batey said. "The fact is the City regularly inspects all types of business operations from street food vendors to small mom and pop shops to large, major businesses."

Police authorities say they decided to inspect hair and beauty salons city-wide after receiving information about drug and gang activity at some businesses.

Griffin cautioned barbers to stay focused on the core issue of civil rights violations.

"This is not about business licenses or soiled combs. This is about law enforcement targeting certain businesses under the guise of conducting health and safety inspections.

If authorities found probable cause to raid barbershops suspected of criminal activity - why didn't the department obtain a search warrant," said Griffin.

"We will not stand back and allow authorities to assume every Black barbershop or beauty salon is dealing drugs."

Council member Charles White

whose district encompasses the targeted businesses downplayed the controversy. He said in a telephone interview some in the press "appear to be manufacturing a story for their paper." He said initial discussions with Police Chief Rick Hall did not completely bear out barber's claims. "I'm getting conflicting stories," said White. The councilman said he will push to meet with barbers and salon owners.

It's not surprising that authorities want these incidents to be viewed as business as usual good governance," said Barbara Ross owner of Barbara's Beauty Salon.

Ross expressed disappointment with the state Department of Consumer Affairs' Board of Barbering and Cosmetology.

"We don't object to the inspections. But to stand by and watch what they know to be questionable if not out right unlawful police behavior is a slap in the face to the entire barbering and cosmetology profession," she said.

"There is no way in the world that police can come into a business establishment and ask a customer for his identification," added Ross' husband and business partner J.S.

DCA spokesman Kevin Flanagan said the Moreno Valley inspections were initiated by Moreno Valley police. He said the agency inspects about 15,000 businesses a year and some are in conjunction with local authorities.

Robert Edward pastor of Rialto Valley Fellowship Seventh Day Adventist Church urged Inland Empire clergy to step up in solidarity with Moreno Valley barbers.

"We have to remember that these are the same men and women who sit in our pews. Like every other American citizen they have rights and under the law they're innocent until proven guilty."

"Imagine me sitting in a barber chair and a police officer walks in and demands my license or worst says I can't leave because he's checking on business licenses. What does that have to do with me? Do I have to carry a license to get a haircut? The implications are far reaching. Call it an inspection or a raid when it's all said and done, this kind of police behavior is shameful and indefensible," said Edwards.

passed away after a long difficult bout with cancer. Memorial services will be held at St. Paul A.M.E. Church 21st & Herrington in San Bernardino on Saturday, April 26, 2008 at 11 A.M.

Powell was born in Crockett, Texas to Plato Flash and Cloteal Flora Watson. The family soon moved to Tucson where she attended local schools.

She met the love of her life Alex Powell when she was five years old on the playground and declared right then and there he would be her husband. Her prediction came true and now after 43 years of marriage they were separated only by her death. "She was committed and extremely faithful as well as being loyal to God, her family and her jobs," said Rev. Arthur Forbes.

When the family moved to Rialto because Alex landed a job working for the Sun Newspaper they joined St. Paul A.M.E. Church in San Bernardino. The family was very active there. She was a member of the Gospel Choir and was called on often to emcee programs. "She had a way of making words come alive in her readings and in the poetry she wrote," said Gertherine Forbes, one of her closest friends.

"She had your back in prayer," said Forbes, her former employer and friend. Powell was his secretary at the Inland Empire Health Center after she left Kaiser Permanente. Upon moving to Riverside she and her family became members of Riverside Christian Family Fellowship, pastored by Forbes. While there she and her husband were associate ministers. She was the church secretary, in the choir, worked with the feeding program and couples ministry for 20 years.

"She was a kind loving woman of God, always smiling with kind words of encouragement," said Willa Woods of Praise Christian Center, also a very close friend and associate for over 30 years.

Her life and her struggle first with Diabetes and then breast cancer is chronicled in a book "Experience, and Enjoy the Journey" that she wrote while she was going through the ordeal. At every turn she praised God. She was not selfish and said, "I believe that this "Cancer Crisis" is for me to deliver this illumination to you who need hope, and a clear focus." She believed her scripturally based book will help others. In her book she speaks of being in denial of an eating disorder and warns us to be careful, of the kinds of food we eat, and how much. Also she wants others to pay attention to their bodies. The doctors were claiming her mammography showed calcium deposits. In April 2005, when she suspected something was wrong, she said she still didn't speak up. "I wanted to complete all that was planned for in the beginning of the year," she says in her book. By June her husband was ill. There were no appointments available until August, but when she described her symptoms she received an immediate appointment. She writes about the call over the phone, the most dreaded of calls that said, "Joyce you have breast cancer," said the doctor. Indeed she had a most aggressive form of cancer but she still had so much to do.

She said that her husband had received an important public art project from the city of Tucson and she had to help him with the clerical work. All the while she was praising God for the opportunity to help him. She made it through the first round of chemotherapy and radiation without undue pain. God still had things for Joyce to do. It had been prophesied that she would write a book.

"One day she handed me the manuscript. It was ready. She said it is finished and now it is yours," said her husband Alex. An accomplished artist, she asked her talented husband to design the cover.

writing songs.

"He was always singing," his son said. "He would call me in the middle of the night with a new song that he had written."

Wilson was born June 19, 1939, in Meridian, Miss., and by the time he was 12, he had his own spiritual singing quartet.

After his family moved to San Bernardino in 1958, he found work as a mail carrier, office clerk and janitor.

He toured for four years with Johnny Harris and the Statesmen, then joined the navy, where he sang in the enlisted men's chorus.

Wilson died Monday of kidney failure at Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Fontana, Calif., according to his son, Tony Wilson.

The smooth-voiced Wilson began as a spiritual singer and had R&B hits in 1968 with The Snake and Do What You Gotta Do.

Although his pop career faded at the end of the 1970s, Wilson kept singing and daughters Tyra Shelene (Steve) Monsanto of Riverside, Nicole Sharvonne, and Kimberly Rochelle (Daniel) Noa, of Tucson; grandchildren Marissa, Danielle, Laurence, Daniel, Michael and Matthew; father Plato F. Watson; brothers Eric, Timothy; sisters Doris (Clyde) Williams, Elaine (Herman) House, Lisa and a host of cousins, nieces, nephews and friends in the Inland Empire and in Tucson. She is preceded in death by daughter Terry, mother Cloteal, and brother Michael.

By March of 2006 after all of the chemotherapy and radiation, the task at hand was to remove the tumor. She kept in mind the 23rd Psalm as she went to sleep. It was successful. All of the breast cancer was gone, however it had spread to her liver. Through it all she depended and leaned on the Lord Jesus Christ. She had faith to know where she was going. She went into the arms of the Lord on April 16, 2008.

She leaves to cherish her memory and celebrate her life: husband Alex,

LEVISTER, JR.

Culturally Competent Mental Health Care

Dear Dr. Levister: My father has a history of mental disorders. He refuses to get help.

He says he can't relate to or trust his doctors who are Asian. Family members call his bouts with depression a "curse". Among Black people, is this belief common? L.F.

Dear L.F. Many Americans, including African-Americans, underestimate the impact of mental disorders. Many believe symptoms of mental illnesses, such as depression, are curses or "just the blues." Issues of distrust in the health care system and mental illness stigma frequently lead African-Americans to initially seek mental health support from non-medical sources.

One out of three Africans who need mental health care receives it. Compared to the general population, African-Americans are more likely to seek treatment early and are less likely to receive follow-up care.

With the rising number of immigrants from Mexico, Central America and Africa, African-American communities across the U.S. are more racially and culturally diverse than ever before. Despite recent efforts to improve mental health services for African Americans and other culturally diverse groups, barriers remain in access to and quality of care from insurance coverage to culturally competent services.

For those with insurance, coverage for mental health services and substance use disorders is substantially lower than coverage for other mental illnesses such as hypertension and diabetes.

Contact the American Psychiatric Association and explain your father's illness and distrust of his doctors. Referral to an African-American mental health specialist may help.

Historically, mental health research has been based on Caucasian and European based populations, and did not incorporate understanding of racial and ethnic groups and their beliefs, traditions and value systems. Culturally competent care is crucial to improving utilization of services and effectiveness of treatment for these communities.

Culture, which is understood to be a combination of common heritage beliefs, values and rituals are an important aspect of racial and ethnic communities.

SAN BERNARDINO

By Ashley A. Jones

Cal State University, San Bernardino officially appointed and welcomed Chief Jimmie Brown to the position of University Police Chief on Friday, April 18, 2008 at the Santos Manuel Student Union.

Chief Brown has served on the campus for ten years holding various positions such as a Police Officer, Investigator, Sergeant, Lieutenant, and Interim University Police Chief. He began his career in law enforcement at the age of 14 as a Police Explorer for the San Bernardino Police Department. He later became a Police Cadet for the Rialto Police Department.

Following his position at the RPD, he served as a Reserve Police Officer with the Colton Police Department, Deputy Sheriff with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, and Investigator with the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. Chief Brown graduated from Southern Illinois University and earned a BA degree in Workforce Development Education.

He is currently a member of the Chiefs Association and University Police Chiefs College, International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators, National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives, California Peace Officers for Christ, California Narcotics Officers Association, and California Gang Officers Association.

The Swearing-in Ceremony included participation from Dr. Albert Karnig, CSUSB President, David DeMauro, Vice President for Administration and Finance, Dennis Sprouse from the City of San Bernardino Police Department, Chief Bob Miller from the Colton Police Department, and Chief Nate Johnson from Sonoma State University.

"Today is just beautiful to have so many people here. Actually, it's much more than an announcement, it's a celebration."

Jimmie has been with us for about ten years, and he has been a citizen of this area forever, a very dedicated individual, just the right person with the right touch that we need as University Police Chief," said DeMauro.

"I consider Jimmie a personal friend, so it's nice to go to an event where a friend is being honored, it's a well deserved honor. Not only do I consider him a friend, but I consider him a fellow police professional, and he is a credit to our profession of law enforcement," said Dennis Sprouse.

"Jimmie is one of the most honest people I've ever worked with in my career, and this began in 1987 back in the City of Colton. He was a calming influence, great smile, people just liked him right away. I'm really proud of Jimmie," said Chief Miller.

Chief Brown said, "I feel very good, I feel great about today's celebration. My family, friends, my supporters are present and it's just amazing, I can't really describe how I feel right now. If it was n't for the Lord, Jesus Christ, I wouldn't be here."

"I have something to say to the campus community, you have a Police Chief who is professional, you have a Police Chief who will listen, you have a Police Chief that believes in doing the right thing, you have a Police Chief that will be there for you night and day, you have a Police Chief who is caring and understanding, you have a Police Chief that can get resources, you have a Police Chief that loves this campus, and you have a Police Chief that loves each and everyone of you," said Chief Brown.

After slavery he and others who became a part of his dream located and purchased land in one of the most isolated places in California, Tulare County.

Everything a town needed for self reliance was there, churches, a general store, a library, beautifully built homes, and a school. It was Professor William Payne who Col. Allensworth met in 1906, that was of like mind, that there needed to be a place that was free from racial discrimination. In 1908, they formed the California Colonization and Home Promotion Association and purchased 800 acres of land. It was the first town to be financed and governed by Blacks.

The town was plagued by issues not of their own fault, the water was poisoned, the Sante Fe Railroad stop was removed and the death of Col. Allensworth. By the early 1960's the families had dwindled away since there was little economic base.

Payne is the great-grandfather of San Bernardino citizen Sharon Johnson first lady of the 6th Ward. She and her son, Julian Marsailles Van Johnson eagerly shared stories and letters passed down through her family. Stories of family and of the importance of education, community and even the Black newspaper, the California Eagle.

The story however would not have been possible to tell without Assemblywoman Wilmer "Aminia" Carter and Senator Gloria Negrete McLeod who co-authored the legislation and Mayor Pro Tem of Fontana Acquanetta Warren, Governor Swarzenegger's appointee to the State Parks Commission who eventually purchased the development rights. They were joined by Supervisor Josie Gonzalez who supported the event. Gonzalez said in her remarks, that she was so taken by this story of self-reliance that every school-aged child should hear the story. "We must showcase this history, to build a better tomorrow. It is the only way the dreams and hopes and desires of the future will be met."

Ted Jackson, the Deputy Director of California State Parks and Former Allensworth State Historic Park Ranger gave background on this amazing place. "This should be important to all people," he said.

His comments were echoed by Warren who also pinned McLeod, Carter and Gonzales with a special park ranger pin. The evening ended with Steven Ptoomey, State Park Interpreter II leading the tour and bringing the wonderful panels alive. Kennedy Wilson, 9 had come from Sacramento to see the exhibit. She was given a choice by her teacher at Riverside Colony Elementary to do the fourth grade Mission project. She heard about the Allensworth story and chose it as her project. "I was so excited to hear about the school and the town. I thought everyone should know this story," she said.

The event was sponsored by Southern California Edison, Louis Davis, presented a poster to Carter and the American Baptist Churches, Chevron Corporation, Inland Empire Investment Advisors, San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, Personal Insurance Federation of California, Comcast

Cable, Verizon Communications, Washington Mutual Bank, and the National Council Of Negro Women, Inc.

Food was provided by Stater Brothers, Inc. and the San Bernardino County's INROADS Bakery Occupations. The traveling exhibit is a partnership with the California State Parks, The California African American Museum and California Community Empowerment Foundation.

The exhibit continues through April 30 and will next be seen at the African American Museum in Los Angeles. NCNW will be taking a bus to the Centennial celebration on October 11, contact (909) 820-5008 for more information.

Classifying The Important

Family Talks

Joseph A.
BAILEY, II
M.D., F.A.C.S.

Import and export mean to carry in and out of harbor or country. Thus, many words have sprung from Latin, "portus" (Anglo-Saxon—port, harbor). Because the port, harbor, or gate to an ancient city was the avenue of much commerce, originally the word "important" related to international trade. The Important is that which is worth bringing into harbor (or into oneself)—that which has weight—and is of value and/or of worth. One reason—Ancient Africans and peoples located around the Mediterranean Sea were so smart is that they utilized the best of what was "imported"—i.e. that which was carried into their ports and harbors. The ancient Greeks and Romans particularly wanted what Africans had developed, to their birth, over thousands of years prior. The things of greatest importance to the Greeks and Romans were whatever African contributions they needed to build their civilization (social and technical development) and culture (spiritual and intellectual development).

What is important permeates every part of one's life and exactly what is chosen is a personal decision. To illustrate, let us look at the classification used by a generic person with good character. First, one considers the Immaterial Realm. For Ancient Africans, who I believe had the world's best ever system of what is important, the Absolutely most important was God. From their beliefs about God they built the most important selfhood mastery paradigms—that of Ma'at (Love in action) and Nonaggression. Second, is the Sublime (the Intangible) where the human mind can find "Seeds" of the highest quality of whatever one needs—Truth, Beauty, Goodness, Harmony, and Unity. The "Seed" is the most important part of the Tree because it contains all the "genes" that will give rise to the rest of the tree; it determines the order of arrangement of the tree's parts; and it replaces any damaged or lost (e.g. when someone breaks off a limb) parts. Hence, to study the "Seed" gives you more information about the composition of the rest of the Tree than studying any other part because all parts of the rest of the Tree have whatever comes out of the "Seed."

Third is the Unbounded Tangible realm. During a marriage, the bride and groom use their respective lit candles to light a third candle. This symbolically removes the separateness of the couple and forms a standard for the structure of the marriage. That structure becomes more important than are either the bride or the groom as individuals. Fourth, the Partially Bounded Tangible introduces both the most important things of what you want and the most important of what you do not want. These are under the umbrella of your System of Values—i.e. things of Worth (e.g. Love, peace, harmony) and things of Value (e.g. material things like money, possessions, power over people). Fifth is the Concrete realm. Similarly, it is about what you want (e.g. creature comforts) and what you do not want (e.g. needless struggle for others and for oneself—especially to not be dependent in your old age). When one is giving consideration to what to focus on in one's Purpose in Life—the most important goal one can choose—one looks at each of these five categories. For selections to be at their best, one must rise above any desire for recognition, fame, or money. At the same time one must successfully deal with lacks, losses, and obstacles. To make the best decisions about each of these realms requires the use of one's Pure Feelings (not emotions) properly integrated with ones Rational Thinking so as to formulate a goal for the greater good and that will endure.

April is National Poetry Month: Understanding Poetic Passages in the Bible 3 of 4

Richard O.
JONES

Poetic language brings an aesthetic quality to the Scriptures and brings the Word of God to the level of human experience so that it may be understood in both its truth and its spirit. The following illustration will serve as an example of poetic Scripture. The Scripture deals with the announcement of judgment. The prophet could have said in plain terms in Mat. 3:12: (1) The powerful judge of the world is about to perform his work. (2) He will come and remove all evil from the earth. (3) He will separate the righteous people from the wicked people. (4) The righteous people will be taken to the place that He has prepared for them, but the wicked people will endure everlasting punishment. However, the Biblical writer chose to relate these truths to human activities that his audience would know in order to engage their total intellectual and emotional identification with the truths. So he compared these truths with the agricultural activity of winnowing in which good grain is separated from the worthless chaff that is mixed with it in the harvest. Thus, verse #3 above would say:

3. He will separate the righteous people from the wicked people like a man who separates good grain from worthless chaff in the process of winnowing.

Verses #2 and #4 would fall into place with the comparison: (2) He will come and remove all evil from the earth like a man who comes to his harvest to remove the worthless chaff. (4) The righteous people will be taken to the place that he has prepared for them like the wheat, which is taken into the barn; but the wicked people will endure everlasting punishment like the chaff, which is taken to be burned. Since chaff is not burned forever, it was necessary to add that the punishment of the wicked would be everlasting. One way to do this was to qualify the comparison with fire in some way, such as by adding: but the kind of fire the wicked face is different.

Verse #1 announces the imminence of this judgment, and so could be graphically illustrated as well: 1. The powerful judge of the world is about to perform his work like a man who picks up a winnowing fork in his hand to head for the threshing-floor. The comparison is a good one, but left in this form would be laborious and cumbersome. So the prophet dropped all the original verses and presented an implied comparison between the Lord God (the realm of the spiritual) and winnowing (the agricultural world). The purpose of the message (hardly to teach how to winnow), the context (the man is Messiah who comes), and a trace of evidence that something other than literal is meant (the fire is unquenchable) all reveal to us the message is figurative. So we read: And His winnowing fork is in His hand, and He will thoroughly clean His threshing-floor, and He will gather His wheat into the barn, but He will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire. (Matt. 3:12 NIV)

SB Public Library select- ed to host "Great Stories CLUB"

San Bernardino Public Library has been selected to host a three-part reading and discussion series called the "Great Stories CLUB." The library is one of 173 libraries nationwide receiving a grant from the American Library Association (ALA) to host this series, developed by the ALA Public Programs Office (PPO) and Young Adult Library Services Association (YALSA). Funding was provided for this program by Oprah's Angel Network.

The Great Stories CLUB (Connecting Libraries, Underserved teens and Books) is a book discussion program created to provide teens with an opportunity to read and discuss three theme-related books. Each title selected for the program focuses on a character who struggles with a serious challenge. As a recipient of this grant from ALA, San Bernardino Public Library will receive programming resources as well as copies of the following books for distribution to teen participants at the Y Academy, the library's partnering organization:

- "Tyrell" by Coe Booth (Scholastic, Inc., 2007)
- "Hole in My Life" by Jack Gantos (Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 2002)
- "Sold" by Patricia McCormick (Hyperion, 2006)

All programs will be held at the Norman F. Feldheim Central Library, Capitola Katin and Jessica Scott, English teachers at the Y Academy, will lead the discussions of each book. This book club is one of several activities in which the Y Academy has collaborated with the Feldheim Central Library to help their students develop a life-long love of reading and lifelong learning. The Y Academy, as part of the San Bernardino City Unified School District, and the San Bernardino Public Library are City of Readers partners. The Y Academy is a community day school for tenth graders, located across the street from the Feldheim Central Library. Each of the three books in this program focuses on the theme of choices, which is very important in the lives of these students. The hope is that discussing these books and the relevance to their own lives will encourage them to make good choices.

Many of you who read my column know me as an Event Planner. However, there's another side to me that's near and dear to my heart. I have a non-profit called "Forgiving For Living, Inc." (FFL) a 501 (c) 3 for over 10 years designed to give solutions to individuals with issues of hate, anger, bitterness, and the inability to forgive. www.forgivingforliving.com.

Forgiving For Living, Inc., was the outcome of me overcoming my own personal issues that started when I was very young. As a child, I was abandoned by my mother and sexually abused by my father. As an adult, I came full circle and forgave my parents and actually had a relationship with both of them until they each passed away. As an adult, I've experienced divorce, overcame cancer while trying to build a business and balance a life as a single parent.

The mission of FFL is to inspire and empower individuals who have experienced abuse, violence, abandonment, discrimination or anything else that causes one to develop low self-esteem. It is our goal and aim to help individuals with these issues by providing them with tools, resources, mentors and information to make positive choices and develop the necessary life skills to move on.

On Saturday, April 26th, we will hold our very first fundraiser benefiting Forgiving For Living, Inc., titled The PLUS Awards. The Luncheon will be held at The Beverly Hills Hotel and we'll be honoring six special and unique individuals that have not only achieved in their professional lives, but also have managed to give back and make a difference in the lives of others. Please join us in paying tribute to Sarah Harris, T.C. Richard, Pat Tobin, Cynthia Busby, Genethia Hayes, Challengers Boys and Girls Club & The Dantzler Family.

We are proud to have Karen E. Hudson as our Event Chair. We also would like to thank all of our Sponsors that stepped up to the plate for our first year including, Broadway Federal Bank, Danny Bakewell, Jr., Northrop Grumman, Wells Fargo Bank, Nestle U.S.A., Inc., Toyota, The Brotherhood Crusade, Dr. Lauren Walton, Councilman Isadore Hall, Dazzle & Design, L.A. Business Printing, Top of the Line Communications, Inc., SAVE THE DATE Media Group, LLC, Personal Services Plus, Inc and thank you Black Voice News for your support!

I also want to thank our Host Committee for all of their efforts: Speaker-Elect Karen Bass, Councilmember Wendy Greuel, Councilmember Jan Perry, Constance Anderson, Lois Buckman, Courtney Gladney, Christiane Harris Hills, Sarah Harris, Stacey Stafford, Sabra Waddy, Danny Bakewell, Jr., Eric Johnson, Jennifer Newmark, Mary Ann Mitchell, Daria Le'Sassier, Marilyn McCoo Davis, Sherrylynn Metoyer, Linda Patterson, Barbara Perkins, Brandy Williams, Brenda Ross Dulan, Synthia SAINT JAMES, Ms. Shabazz, Renita Tyson, Portia Cowlings, Amber Carpenter & Juanita Palacios-Sims.

Thank you everyone!
Give your all in all that you do. Then the PLUS won't just be more, it will be the difference!

One of my Daily Devotionals Dr. Frederick K.C. Price said: "Out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaks." Matthews 12:34: Your heart is your spirit, you are a spirit, you have a soul, and you live in a physical body. You are an atri-partite creature, in other words, you are composed of three parts. With those three parts, you actually contact three worlds. With your spirit, you contact the world, or realm of God. Jesus says in John 4:24, "God is Spirit, and those who worship him must worship in Spirit and truth." Genesis 1:26 tells us. Then God said Let us make man in our image, according to our likeness." If God made us in his image, then we must be like God. God is a Spirit. Therefore, we also are Spirits.

HELLO MORENO VALLEY!

Are you registered to vote? If not, please register now. This is the year of new beginnings. Let your vote count. Only you can make a difference in this world we live in. And only you can make positive or negative changes. Yesterday while sitting on the COPIM bus in route to El Centro, Ca. I heard so many conversations, it was amazing as to the different conversations and ideas, people are very interesting in their different ideas and what they bring to the table. The gas prices, the loss of so many homes and the cost of food and so on. That is one of the reasons why your vote counts. We must make sure that we have done our part.

There is a book that we have been encouraged to read by our Bishop Craig W. Johnson, the name is "THE SUCCESS PRINCIPLES How to Get from Where you Are to Where You Want to Be" by Jack Canfield and Janet Switzer (author of Chicken Soup for the Soul). Even if you are not a reader this is a good book to read.

Moreno Valley, last week I wrote that for the month of May send your words about your special moments with your mother and at that time also with your father for June. Go back in your memory bank and bless some people. I'm looking forward to hearing from you. And always remember to be very careful how you treat your parents. Also, start making plans for her special day coming up, remember every day is mother's day.

This Sunday, April 27, 2008, at Cathedral of Praise International Ministries I will be celebrating Reflection Sunday, fourteen years of services. Join us as we look back and anticipate the future.

CaliFest '08

Rickerby Hinds, creator/producer of Califest HIP HOP THEATRE and assistant professor of Playwriting in the UC Riverside Department of Theatre

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

The Department of Theatre at the University of California, Riverside, presents Califest '08 HIP HOP THEATRE, now in its sixth year. This two-day celebration of Hip-Hop culture through theatre, dance, music, poetry, spoken word and art, is produced by Rickerby Hinds, assistant professor of Playwriting in the UC Riverside Department of Theatre.

The two events of Califest '08 HIP HOP THEATRE take place

April 30 and May 2, Wednesday and Friday, at 8:00 P.M. in the Theatre Lab, Humanities 411, located next to the University Theatre on the UC Riverside campus.

Admission is free and open to the public. Seating is limited and guests are encouraged to arrive early to ensure admission.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

April 30, Wednesday, 8:00 P.M. Borderlandia and the Frontera Explosion:

This kick-off event for Califest '08 HIP HOP THEATRE features the performance poetry of Amalia Alvarez and Mark Gonzales, bursting the boundaries to illuminate love, survival, rebellion, ancestry, and youth culture.

May 2, Friday, 8:00 P.M.

The Sixth Vowel by Niki Klaymoon:

Story of a hilarious 5th grader with an intuitive connection to the spirit world, but parents and teachers tell her she has a learning disability. Boom Bap Meditations by Baba Israel:

Follows the journey of Baba Israel from his native New York to his mother's homeland of Australia. Watch this white boy discover Hip Hop Culture.

Rickerby Hinds is the creator and producer of Califest '08 HIP HOP THEATRE, now in its sixth year. A native of Honduras who immigrated to South-Central Los Angeles at age 13, Hinds is currently an assistant professor of Playwriting in the UC Riverside Department of Theatre. He holds an MFA in Playwriting from UCLA's School of Theatre, Film and Television and is one of the founders of the hip hop theatre genre.

Amalia Alvarez is a UCR graduate student in Creative Writing and Writing for the Performing Arts where she will be completing her studies in June with a focus in poetry.

Mark Gonzales is a Hip Hop Theatre playwright, HBO Def Poet, performer and lecturer who has been commissioned to perform his productions for Cornell University, Congress, and conferences across the United States. In 2003, Mark traveled to Palestine to document first hand the struggle of the Palestinians for social justice. Past and current performance lectures include: Afro-Latinogistics, Kangols and Kufis, Hip Hop, Cops, and the African Holocaust, Wordstory: Reclaiming the Past through Poetry, Throwing this Rock Called Hip Hop, Hip Hop as hegemony, among others. Comments can be directed to humanwrites@gmail.com

Niki Klaymoon received a BA in Dance from UCLA. She has performed The Sixth Vowel at Miami Project Hip-Hop, La Pena Hip-Hop Theatre Festival, Oregon Shakespeare Festival, and the Edinburgh Fringe Festival in Scotland. Her other solo show Ms. Spellings of Be, directed by Rennie Harris, was performed at the Illadelph Legends of Hip-Hop Festival in Philadelphia, the Electric Lodge in Los Angeles, and Bates Dance Festival in Maine. Her choreography was showcased at the Freud Playhouse and was selected by the American College Dance Festival to be in the Carpenter Center Gala. She has collaborated artistically with Ovasoul7 and performed in works directed by Rennie Harris, Meredith Monk, Marc Bamuthi-Joseph, and David Dorfman. She currently teaches dance, poetry, and theatre in schools around Oakland and San Francisco.

Baba Israel has performed with Full Circle on Broadway at the New Victory Theater, was stung on MTV's Hip Hop practical jokes show with Method Man and Red Man. He has been featured in such hip hop films as Freestyle, Breath Control, Hip Hop for Hope, and his music was featured in the Freshest Kids Documentary. He has shown up in DVDs by Chuck D, Roc Raida, and VH1's Hip Hop week.

Learn About Fashion, Summer Studio And More At Art Institute Of California-Inland Empire

The Art Institute of California-Inland Empire is opening its doors to local residents interested in a college degree or a career in the creative arts.

Monica Jeffs, senior director of admissions, said the open house will be held from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. Saturday, April 26 at The Art Institute of California-Inland Empire campus located at 630 E. Brier Dr., San Bernardino.

"Guests will learn why we are America's leader in creative education," Jeffs said.

"We are presenting information about all of the majors we offer such as our new fashion and retail management program, as well as game arts and design, culinary arts, interior design, graphic design, web design and interactive media, and media arts and animation. We hope many of our guests will want to apply for our next term, which begins May 8 with day, evening and weekend courses."

The open house will also serve as an introduction to Summer Studio, a program The Art Institute of California-Inland Empire offers during summer for high school students starting their junior or senior year in the fall.

In this program, students work with a non-profit organization selected by The Art Institute of California-Inland Empire. They help the organization with design needs, thus experiencing what it would be like to work in a particular design field.

Also at the open house, there will be hands-on workshops in all of the programs, and a more extensive introduction to the new Fashion & Retail Management program.

The open house is also an opportunity to meet The Art Institute's faculty, many of whom are also working in the industry, Jeffs said. These include Robert Delgadillo, who instructs both graphic design and fashion courses at The Art Institute, and also designs ads that have appeared in magazines like In Style and Vogue.

Jeffs said members of the public can tour the facility and meet with representatives from the university's academic, student life and financial aid departments.

"Get the facts on how financial aid works, how you qualify and what you could be eligible for," she said. "You may be surprised at how much is available for students with the desire to succeed."

For more information, call The Art Institute of California - Inland Empire at (909) 915-2100 or visit www.artinstitutes.edu/inlandempire.

Legacy Roundtable Challenges IE Educators

The Black Voice News

INLAND EMPIRE

Six years following passage of the No Child Left Behind Act; Legacy Roundtable, a Southern California based African-American Think Tank, declares the African-American male an endangered species within the college preparatory classroom. Parents and educators remain equally aware of the achievement gap and continue to struggle with a sound solution to boost poor academic performance and statistics. The US Department of Education 2008 California Progress Report cites African-American 8th grade math proficiency scores in a heat for dead last at 18 percent.

Despite the disparaging statistics, African-American females are graduating from institutions of higher education at increasing rates, however the college campus remains an unfamiliar setting for her male counterpart. Through a cooperative effort, Legacy Roundtable has teamed up with local colleges, churches and community based organizations to answer the call of this forgotten scholar.

With an established goal of 500 African-American males in Calculus By 2012; Southland colleges accept the Legacy Roundtable Challenge via continued support of the 2008 Accelerated Summer Mathematics Academy (ASMA) hosted by: Mt. San Antonio College, Chaffey College and UCR. ASMA is a free eight-week intensive learning experience targeting middle school African-American males who demonstrate good academic standings (+2.0 GPA) and provide evidence of their enrollment in geometry. Classes will be held Monday through Thursday beginning June 23rd and ending on July 31st.

Phase one ASMA classes will be held at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, California and Chaffey College located in Fontana, California. Accepted scholars will be immediately enrolled into a college level Intermediate Algebra course offered and instructed by Mt. San Antonio professors. The ASMA curriculum also includes a two-week intensive mathematics review aimed to assist scholars with the mandatory placement exam. This effort is then followed by six weeks of care, nurturing, development and qualified mathematic instruction. Students who complete phase one with passing scores will be eligible to receive college credits.

Phase two of the program includes a one-week residential component hosted by the University of California Riverside and awarded to the top 25 Southern California scholars based upon recommendations of program personnel. Referrals from parents, counselors, teachers, principals, school administrators, community leaders and churches are invited. Applications will be reviewed during April and scholars will be notified of their selection by mid-May 2008.

In addition to the goal of enrolling 500 African American scholars into Calculus by the year 2012, Legacy Roundtable seeks to equip and reinforce the basic math skills needed to compete inside and outside of the classroom.

New Charter School Opening in August 2008
Norton Space & Aeronautics Academy (NSAA) NSAA will open with grades K-2 in August 2008.

Informational meetings are scheduled for April 28 and 29, and May 5 and 6, 2008. Meetings begin at 6:00 pm in the Feldheym Library, 555 W. 6th Street, San Bernardino, CA.

WCBPA Meet In Pasadena

Guests and publishers of West Coast Black Publishers Association, from L-R, are Willie Brown, Joe C. Hopkins, Peggy Hunt, Gloria Kennedy, Herb Hudson, Paulette Brown Hinds, Cloves Campbell, Jr., Deanna Michaux, Ruth Hopkins, Dee Slade, and Ellen Coley.

The Black Voice News

PASADENA

The West Coast Black Publishers Association held their quarterly meeting at the Pasadena Hilton on April 10, 2008. The organization is composed of 24 African American newspaper publishers from six western states including Arizona, California, Nevada, Colorado, Oregon and Washington and was organized in 1971 to bring Black publishers together at a time when they were excluded from other newspaper organizations.

Herb Hudson, founder of the popular restaurant chain, Roscoe's Chicken 'N Waffles, spoke on the trials of getting his company off the ground. Hudson highlighted the launching of his national campaign for Pit Bull energy drink and Pit Bull energy bars. The drink is the brainchild of Hudson's Hip Hop Beverage Company and has developed a sugar free product which is safe for diabetics. It is the only Black-owned beverage production company in the nation.

WCBPA will celebrate 37 years at its 25th Annual Conference scheduled for Las Vegas, Nevada in October, 2008. It is a trade association with a mission of advancing the cause of the Black Press in the western United States and to provide regional and national corporate advertisers with a vehicle for the effective marketing of their products and services to the Black community.

Member papers include the Riverside Black Voice, Precinct Reporter, Tri-County Bulletin, The Los Angeles Sentinel, Los Angeles Watts Times, The Bakersfield News Observer, Arizona Informant, California Advocate, Tri County Sentry, The Sun Reporter, Herald Dispatch, The Facts, Seattle Medium, Tacoma True Citizen, Post News Group, The Skanner Portland, The Skanner Seattle, Sacramento Observer, Las Vegas Sentinel Voice, San Diego Voice and Viewpoint, The Globe Newspaper Group, Inglewood Today, San Francisco Bay View, Portland Observer, Denver Weekly, and The Pasadena/San Gabriel Valley Journal.

Officers are President Joe C. Hopkins, Pasadena San Gabriel Valley Journal; 2nd Vice President Cloves Campbell Jr., Arizona Informant; Secretary Eleanor Boswell Raine, Globe Newspaper Group; and Treasurer Hardy Brown, Riverside Black Voice News.

Advertisers may utilize the opportunity to participate in this year's conference, and sponsors can assist the organization in accomplishing their goals through the annual conference. Those interested are invited to contact the offices of Alescia Buford, Public Relations representative for the group at 818.995.6545. Events planned for the conference include trade industry workshops, Youth Day, Black Church/Black Press Day, and an Awards Banquet.

Protecting the health of California's residents one breath at a time

By Peter Smith

SACRAMENTO – The Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) is California's consumer champion. With 40 consumer protection agencies, DCA leads California's consumer charge in a variety of sectors and is responsible for helping raise awareness about a range of issues that affect all Californians.

One such issue is protecting Californians' health by protecting our environment. The Bureau of Automotive Repair, a responsible motor vehicle emissions program, has developed a health program aimed at helping our residents to preserve our quality of life and maintain their vehicles. ► SMITH Page 5D3

Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving Wall Comes to Fontana

The Black Voice News

FONTANA

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial is one place where pro- and anti- war activists can come together to reconcile and honor the men and women who served in Vietnam.

Now Inland Empire residents have an opportunity to experience the deeply moving memorial via a half-size replica to be displayed in Fontana in May.

Sponsored by a coalition of veterans groups and the city of Fontana, the Vietnam Moving Wall will be displayed 24 hours a day at Fontana's Miller Park May 1 through May 5.

Special guest will be Medal of Honor Recipient Jon Cavaiani, who was bestowed the honor in 1971 for his heroism on the battlefields of Vietnam.

Besides providing a chance to honor the sacrifices of America's military heroes, the "Moving Wall" is an excellent educational opportunity, said VFW Post 772 Commander Joe Dean. His post has taken the lead on bringing the wall to Fontana.

"A lot of people don't know what the Wall is all about. This generation doesn't know what Vietnam was all about. The Wall is a remembrance, it's a healing process, and it has great educational value," Dean said. "I have talked to several schools. Some are planning to bring classes to learn about the Wall."

The "Moving Wall" will be a deeply personal experience for VFW member Ray Medina.

Long after the war Medina and some of the buddies he served with in Vietnam met in Washington DC to celebrate the anniversary of the Vietnam Memorial. Even though 30 years had passed, their bond was still strong.

"They were the guys you leaned on when you had to," Medina said. "Being at the wall brought out a lot of emotions that had been buried. I expect the Moving Wall will have a similar impact."

The organizing committee is still seeking donations in the form of cash, food, water and other needed items.

The event is cosponsored by American Legion Post 262, VFW Post 6563 and Amvets Post 1240.

It will be located at Miller Park, at Arrow Blvd. just east of Sierra. For more information contact Post Commander Joe Dean at (909) 829-9490, Ann Knickerbocker at (909) 822-8625 or annknickerbocker@yahoo.com, or Lydia Wibert at 213-4039.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: DOROTHY A. FRAZIER CASE NUMBER RIP 093281

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: DOROTHY A. FRAZIER, A Petition for Probate has been filed by: GLORIA FRAZIER in the Superior Court of California, County of: RIVERSIDE. The Petition for Probate requests that: GLORIA FRAZIER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.)

The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: Date: May 6, 2008 Time: 9:00 Dept.: 10NCP, Superior Court of California, County of Riverside, 4175 Main Street, Riverside, CA 92501. If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for petitioner: Gloria Frazier, 1954 Missouri Street, Riverside, CA 92507

Historic Black Township Hosts Inspirational Celebration

The Black Voice News

LOS ANGELES

The Allensworth Community Volunteer Association in partnership with the California State Department of Parks will host its tenth annual Gospelfest at Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park on Saturday April 26, 2008. The theme for this year's event is "Keeping the Vision Alive" and will feature gospel performers from throughout the state of California. On this special occasion visitors will be able to experience the "spirit of Allensworth" while enjoying the sounds of choirs and gospel performers and the vision of praise dancers as they each "make a joyful noise unto the Lord."

The line-up will include The Inspired Catholic Voices (Oakland), Minister Ronny Mills (Pittsburgh), Sarah Ford Singers

Col. Allen Allensworth

(Burbank), Four With God (Las Vegas), Spiritual Truth (Tustin), Silent Praise (Visalia), Brenda Lee Egar Group, Incredible Praise Team (Carson), Rick Alcue Jones, Ben Gospel Group, Mustardseed Ministries (Culver City), Perpetual Praise Dance Ministry, Ivan Edmonds, Compton Drumline and Rev. Steve Loudd.

The town of Allensworth was the first town in California founded by African Americans. It was located in the Tulare County. This year marks the centennial anniversary of its founding. Several activities have been planned to mark this historic landmark including a traveling exhibit entitled, "Allensworth: 100 Years of the California Dream."

The event is admission free and open to the public. There

Ushers and Nurses Auxiliary Celebrated at Park Avenue MBC

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

The Ushers and Nurses Auxiliary recently celebrated their Annual ushers & Nurses Day at Park Avenue Missionary Baptist Church. Their theme was "Ushers and Nurses following the Call of Jesus Christ into Service."

It was truly a blessing to hear the guest speaker Rev. Jon Harris of Castle Rock Baptist Church giving a message on "Being Under Construction in Christ Jesus."

The Youth and Junior Ushers honored Sister Grace Purifoy, one of the mother's of the board for her kindness, wisdom, never ending support and continuous encouragement to the youth. They all expressed their words of love and presented her with flowers and a special name badge and took a group picture for her memories.

Sister Ophelia Cotton, another mother of the board was also honored. She sang one of her favorite old hymns to the entire church.

The service was packed with church members, friends and family to celebrate the Ushers and Nurses Annual Day, and see the famous ushers and nurses march to their theme song: "We are soldiers in the Army!"
